

African American Museum of the Performing Arts

A 501c3 not-for-profit organization

What is AAMPA?

The African American Museum of Performing Arts (AAMPA) is a non-profit cultural institution that will archive, curate and celebrate the cultural contributions of African American performance across five traditional disciplines.

Dance

Theatre

Film/TV

Oration

Orchestral Music

Mission- 3 Pillars

Curate

a definitive archive of African American performance arts

Train

gifted artists who are dedicated to advancing our legacy via an elite Conservatory

Present

the highest expressions of African American performance in our theater and performance spaces

Programs

Virtual Exhibits

Museum exhibits will utilize virtual technology to host digital tours and streaming live performances.

Master Classes

AAMPA will provide social historical context and curricula for study and elite training in the Lennix Performance Arts Conservatory

Live Performances

Patrons and guests can attend preeminent live performances at the new Lillian Marcie Center theater and other venue spaces on campus